HONG KONG'S REUNIFICATION WITH THE MOTHERLAND

Following the political turmoil at the turn of spring and summer in 1989, Britain adopted a non-cooperative stance towards China on matters related to Hong Kong. To ensure the smooth return of Hong Kong, China established the Preliminary Working Committee (PWC) of the Preparatory Committee for the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region in 1993 and the Preparatory Committee for the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region in 1996 to oversee preparations for the establishment of the Hong Kong Special Administrative Region. In late 1996, the first Selection Committee, responsible for electing the first Chief Executive and members of the Provisional Legislative Council, was formed. From the late evening of 30 June leading into the early hours of 1 July 1997, the Chinese and British governments held the Handover Ceremony in the New Wing of the Hong Kong Convention and Exhibition Centre. The then-President of China, Jiang Zemin, solemnly announced the return of Hong Kong to the motherland.

版等文化事業，讓香港得以為1949年新政協及新中國成立做出了貢獻。

Following the end of the War of Resistance Against Japanese Aggression, the Communist Party of China began conducting semi-public activities in Hong Kong, including resuming publication of the Party newspaper Hwa Shiang Pao; collaborating with democratic parties to establish the Ta Teh Institute in 1946; founding the Xinhua News Agency Hong Kong Branch in 1947, which subsequently evolved into the Chinese government's representative organisation in Hong Kong; and organising the Hong Kong and Kowloon Federation of Trade Unions (HKFTU) in 1948, which united the left-wing trade unions across various industries in Hong Kong. Many Communists and democratic figures who were persecuted for opposing the Nationalist government's incitement of civil war migrated to Hong Kong to engage in political activities. This allowed Hong Kong to contribute to the opening of the First National Committee of the Chinese People's Political Consultative Conference (CPPCC) and the founding of New China in 1949.
